ALLIED FORCES BATTLED OVER FIFTY ENEMY SUBMARINES IN CARRYING OUT INVASION OPERATIONS IN N. AFRICA

13 of Enemy "Subs" Were Sunk, and Only One Allied Transport "Failed to Deliver," States Spokesman — Certain "High Algerian Personages" To Be Interned

(By International News Service)

LONDON, Nov. 18 — Allied landing forces in North Africa battled a force of at least 50 enemy submarines in carrying out the invasion operations, an authoritative British spokesman said today.

He revealed that 30 U-boats were off North Africa when the Allied armada arrived, and later was reinforced by about 20 more.

Thirteen of the enemy submarines were sunk and only one Allied transport "failed to deliver," the spokesman said.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Nov. 18—Certain "High Algerian personages" will be interned, it was announced today by Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark, commander of Allied Forces in Algeria. The decision was reached, he said, following proof that the persons in question had impeded the Allied war effort.

CAIRO, Nov. 18—Enemy losses in the Egyptian debacle now total 75,000 killed, wounded and taken prisoner, Gen. Sir Harold R. L. G. Alexander estimated today.

British losses, he said, were less than 14,000. The number of enemy prisoners is increasing daily. Gen. Alexander paid warm tribute to the U. S. Army Air Corps for the part played in the Egyptian offensive.

Conduct Rites On Tuesday For Aged Langhorne Man

LANGHORNE, Nov. 18—Funeral was conducted yesterday for Daniel Mansfield Schumo, who passed away on Saturday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Irene S. Seipt, Langhorne Manor. Service was held at the Seipt residence, the Rev. Harvey K. Heebner, pastor of the Schwenkfelder Church, Philadelphia, officiating. Burial in Arlington Cemetery, Philadelphia, was in charge of R. L. Horner, funeral director.

Mr. Schumo, who was 84 years of age, had resided here for 19 years. His survivors, in addition to Mrs. Seipt, include a brother, Robert G. Schumo, Philadelphia; and the following daughters and son: Mrs. Carl F. Miller, Reading; Mrs. Herbert R. Boyle, Detroit, Mich.; and Elmer M. Schumo, of Hamburg.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATION

A civil service examination will be held in the Bristol post office building, on Saturday, November 21, at 9.15 a. m., for the position of junior clerk stenographer (female) at $1400 per annum, for duty at Bristol. Any person who can qualify for this position, may secure the necessary application at Bristol post office.

CAMP ROBERTS, Cal. (INS)—Because he's the father of eight children, Private Raymond Scott, stationed at Camp Roberts, has a higher base pay than a second lieutenant.

Pvt. Scott, 41, draws the usual $50 per month plus a large family allowance. He volunteered at St. Clair, Mo.

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (INS)—An overland supply route extending from Florida to Puerto Rico is rapidly being developed to alleviate shortages of foodstuffs and other vital necessities brought about by the submarine attacks on shipping, it was announced recently. Initial shipments sent over the route have already helped stave off shortages in rice, the essential food in the Puerto Rican diet.

THE WAR AT A GLANCE

By International News Service

British parachute troops, landed from American transport planes, today held a strategic town deep in Tunisia on the way to the ports of Tunis and Bizerte. American and fighting French troops were in the two Allied columns driving on the Tunisian ports whose control will consolidate the Allied hold on the southern shore of the Mediterranean.

A third column, driving through the interior of Tunisia, was headed for the town of Gabes on the eastern coast, and within 100 miles of the Libyan border. When this goal is reached the Allied forces will be closer to Tripoli than the rapidly retreating Axis army in Libya.

Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's pursuing Eighth Army was beyond Derna, on the Libyan coast, and another detachment was driving inland across the Cyrenaican hump east of Mechili. The remnants of Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's army were reported to be strung out along the coastal road between Benghazi and El Agheila. The vanguard of the retreating force was still more than 300 miles from Tripoli.

In the southwest Pacific American and Australian jungle troops closed in on the Japanese base at Buna, on the north shore of the Papuan Peninsula. As the ground troops grew closer to the enemy stronghold, Allied planes pounded Japanese positions and blasted their shortening lines of communication.

Britain's Eighth Army has swept across the northern hump of Libya to within 70 miles of the port of Benghazi, it was officially announced today.

President Advises All To Work As Forces Advance

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (INS)—The American people and the United Nations today were assured by President Roosevelt "that the turning point of this war has at last been reached," but that they must keep "fighting and working" as "our forces advance" to victory.

"During the past two weeks," the President said in a radio address, "we have had a great deal of good news, and it would seem that the turning point of this war has at last been reached."

He immediately tempered his remarks with the admonition that "this is no time for exultation. There is no time now for anything but fighting and working to win."

In an address from the White House, broadcast over all the major radio networks and "piped" to the Herald-Tribune Forum in New York City, the President made the unusual "confession" that he had "slipped" on one occasion and had given out valuable military information prematurely, partly because of political considerations.

Scouts Take Part In First-Aid Tournaments

The first of the annual district fall first-aid tournaments of the Bucks County Council Boy Scouts of America was held in Churchville. Three problems were given, the first a general patrol problem, the second a problem in a simulated blackout in which flashlights only could be used and the third a problem involving self first aid. Three patrols from Troop 5 of Churchville rated standard with a rating of 70% or better.

The tournament for the North Penn district will be held in Sellersville tonight for the middle Bucks district at the Methodist Church, Doylestown, on Thursday night; the lower Bucks district tournament will be held next Tuesday, followed by the Delaware Valley district tournament at the Lower Makefield School on Monday, Nov. 30th. An innovation this year is the fact that highest patrol from each district will have an opportunity to try in February at the council court of honor to compete for the council championship.

The Hon. Hiram H. Keller, general chairman of the council's campaign for maintenance funds, announced today that the total received in cash and pledges was $12,273.22. He further stated that indications were that close to $14,000 would be received when all reports are complete.

How To Get Service Flags

By "The Stroller"
In reply to a reader from the Third Ward who asks how service flags are procured for the various wards of Bristol Borough:

Residents of two wards of Bristol have initiated among themselves plans for procuring service flags. One flag has already been hung in the fifth ward and one is to be hung on Sunday in the fourth ward.

Laughing gaily at a cartoon depicting women war workers are five "War Wives" of Fleetwings, who, though concerned about their husbands in the Service in the various parts of the globe, can aid Victory by doing their work on the Home Front. They are, left to right: Elsie Roberts, Lydia Doster, Gertrude Copestake, Irene Betley, and Anne Williams.

WARN AGAINST USE OF 'PHONES DURING ALERTS

One Operator "Swamped" With Inquiries As To Meaning of Sirens

IS VITALLY IMPORTANT

Civilian defense officials in Bensalem Township area state that in connection with the alert test of Monday morning, telephone operator at Cornwells Heights was "swamped" with calls from individuals inquiring as to what the sirens and bombs signified.

This, it is stated, greatly impairs the necessary calls in connection with raid tests.

Complaints from other communities as to excessive use of the telephone has been received by officials, who stress upon all not only the importance but the necessity of keeping telephone wires free during a raid or test, and for a period of time thereafter, in order that vital calls can be placed.

Gasoline Coupon Value To Be Cut November 22nd

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (INS)—On the heels of a one-gallon cut in the basic East Coast gasoline ration, WPI officials today explored possibilities for increasing transportation of petroleum to the Atlantic Seaboard by more than 100,000 barrels a day.

The Office of Price Administration announced that the value of the "A" coupons in 16 now-rationed Eastern States would be reduced from four to three gallons beginning Nov. 22 as part of the 129,000-barrel-per-day petroleum curtailment recommended by Oil Co-ordinator Ickes.

Other savings are expected to be made by slashing fuel oil consumption in non-war industries and allowing home owners generally only enough oil for 50-degree heat, instead of the originally planned 65. The North African offensive brought on the need for curtailments.

Officials indicated, however, that the transportation of petroleum and petroleum products will have to be upped by more than 100,000 barrels daily into the Atlantic Seaboard area, even if the 129,000-barrel cut recommended by Ickes is achieved.

At the current rate of consumption, the Eastern area faces a daily deficit of over 200,000 barrels a day this winter.

Methods for boosting the East's supply include bringing in more petroleum by tank car and increasing the 300,000-barrel capacity of the Texas-to-Illinois pipeline—now nearing completion—to 400,000 barrels, if additional pumping equipment can be found.

Another possibility would be connecting the terminus of an existing oil pipeline at Helena, Ark., with a gas pipeline running from the West Virginia area into the Eastern Seaboard zone.

FATHER OF MARTYRED MISSIONARY TO SPEAK

Dr. Charles E. Scott Will Tell of Heroic Witness of Chinese Christians

TONIGHT AT 8 O'CLOCK

Dr. Charles E. Scott, one of the world's Christian leaders, father of Betty Stam, will bring a message entitled, "Heroic Witness of Chinese Christians Under Appalling Conditions," in the Bristol Presbyterian Church this evening at 8:00.

Dr. Scott is one of the outstanding speakers in the Presbyterian Church today. One of the things which makes his speaking so thoroughly impressive is the sincerity of purpose which is his. He is admirably fitted to speak on the subject assigned to him, having been in China during the early Japanese occupation, and having seen with his own eyes some of the atrocities committed by the invasion forces.

He has had tragedy deal with his own family, when his daughter and her husband were martyred by Communistic handbats at the very beginning of their lives as Christian missionaries in China. As of Christendom is familiar with the tragic story of the death of these two missionaries, not yet 30 years of age, while they were performing their duties as servants in the Kingdom of Christ.

As this terrible blow descended upon John and Betty Stam they were not unprepared. Years before, in 1925, Betty had written with her own hand, in the back of her Bible, the following, which she headed, "My Covenant": "Lord, I give up my own purposes and plans, all my own desires, hopes and ambitions, and accept Thy will for my life. I give myself, my life, my all utterly to Thee, to be Thine forever. I hand over to Thy keeping all of my friendships, my love; all the people whom I love are to take second place in my heart. Fill me and seal me with Thy Holy Spirit. Work out Thy whole will in my life, at any cost, now and forever. To me to live is Christ and to die is gain." (Phil. 1:21) (Signed) Elizabeth Alden Scott.

Stewart M. Robinson, in "The Presbyterian," said as he commented on the martyrdom of John and Betty Stam, "It is the answer to the young people's query today. There they stand on Eagle Hill, outside a city wall, two young folk who walked American streets, rode in motor cars, talked over telephones, appreciated good things, were well educated, enjoyed fun, loved and married, but who were born again, believed the Gospel of the shed blood of the Lord Jesus Christ, found in His service their highest joy, and step by step, from the dull routine of a language school to martyrdom by the sword, they walked with the Lord, and found Him all they wanted. No clearer, regenerated, young heart can dodge the testimony of John and Betty Stam."

HUSBANDS IN ARMY, WIVES KEEP BUSY ON PRODUCTION LINE

Quintet of Women Are Very Busily Engaged At Fleetwings

AIDING THE WAR EFFORT

Bending Every Effort in Order That the War Might End More Quickly

While their husbands are battling the Axis forces, five war wives are working hard on the production line at the plant of Fleetwings, Inc.

The quintet keep busy at their typing, their secretarial duties, and other tasks, anxious to bend every effort, as they feel everyone else should, so that the war might the more quickly end.

Elsie Nixon Roberts, whose husband, Lindley Roberts, is a Marine, says: "I haven't seen 'Lyn' since last Thanksgiving. We've been married a year and three months." "Lyn," a technical sergeant, is a radio operator on a small island near Puerto Rico. "He sees few white people, eats a lot of bananas, and swims in most of his leisure time as it's almost too hot to live down there," Mrs. Roberts states. Prior to becoming a secretary at Fleetwings, soon after war was declared, she stayed with her husband at Quantico, Va., from where she was sent to Puerto Rico. She lives with her parents in Newtown.

Mrs. Dorothy Schmidt, dope room employee, has a husband, two brothers, and a brother-in-law in the army. Her husband, Martin, enlisted six months ago. In the infantry division, he is posted at Camp Forrest, Tenn. Dorothy has a 4½ year old son, Gary, who attends kindergarten. "He talks about his daddy all the time," says Dorothy, who has been wielding a spray gun on fabric surfaces. "My one brother is in Alaska, the other's in Arkansas, and my brother-in-law is in Hawaii," she said. She is adept in her work, doing duties that formerly only men performed.

John Doster is with the Army in England, while his wife, Lydia, is a member of tool design department. Married ten months ago, Lydia said that her husband has been in the service nine months. "I hear from John often, and he likes it over there," Lydia told us. "During the summer he was a volunteer farmer, helping the overburdened Englishmen harvest their crops. He liked that job." John is in the infantry. His wife, who files tracings and blueprints, lives in Edgely.

"My husband's in the Navy, Second Class," said Mrs. Gertrude Copestake, sub-assembly worker. Plant One, Joseph Copestake is a radio operator, at present stationed at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, but he has seen much convoy duty overseas. Gertrude is the mother of an eight-months-old baby girl, Virginia Lee. Mrs. Copestake likes her

Will Discuss Problems Of Interest To Farmers

The farm election meetings of December 4th will have a program that farmers will find both profitable and enjoyable, according to Russell K. Edwards, chairman of the Bucks County Agricultural Conservation Committee, urging every farmer to mark his calendar to hold open the first Friday of December.

Problems relating to farm labor, prices, rationing of farm supplies, and transportation—all vital to the success of the nation's food production program next year—will be in the forefront not only in the program for the evening, but they suggest some of the responsibilities of the conservation committee members who will be elected on that day. December 4 is Farm Election Day not only in Pennsylvania with its 311 Conservation Program communities, but throughout the northeastern region of nine states.

"The community committee serves both as the agent of the government and as the representative of the farmers of his community with the Government," Mr. Edwards explained. "How well he serves the needs of the farmers of his community on the one hand, and of his country at war on the other hand, depends largely on the caliber and devotion of the man elected as community committeeman."

A farmer should not think of giving his vote at the election meeting as a gesture only toward co-operation with the government, he warned, but should seriously consider the election in its relationship to farming problems, and the value a forceful and intelligent committeeman can be to him, the community, and the Nation.

Community lines in regard to AAA boundaries have been changed in a number of instances since last year, and each farmer will be informed of the location of his election meeting. All farmers who participated in the 1942 Agricultural Conservation or Parity Program are qualified to vote in this election.

LATEST NEWS BULLETINS

Two Pilots of Freight Plane Killed

Dayton, O. — Two pilots flying a United Airlines plane ferrying freight from Chicago to the Army's Patterson Field at Dayton, were killed today when the plane crashed and burned a mile north of the field.

United Airlines officials said the plane was under contract to the Army and was making a regular trip when the crash occurred.

A Patterson Field official said the plane had received a clearance signal to land at the field but apparently came in too low. The Douglas airliner struck the top of a tree, crashed on its back and burned.

One Killed in Canton Fire and Explosion

Canton—A fire and explosion today wrecked the business section of this small Bradford County community and killed one person.

A sudden blast which occurred while firemen were battling a blaze in a pool hall caused a wall to collapse and trap two women. Fire raged out of control and burned down the post office, bank and a grocery store.

Fire Chief John Keltz estimated the loss at $100,000.

UPS AND DOWNS

Looking back several months and reading reports for the period from the various battle fronts of the world, Americans are reminded of that song about the ferris wheel. "Up—down—up—down" is almost as good a theme song for the nation as "Praise the Lord and Pass the Ammunition."

For the civilian population at home as well as for the members of the Army, the Navy and the Marines the first year of war has had its ups and downs. One moment depression yawns, the next the spirit is lifted on wings of optimism.

Among the down periods are Pearl Harbor, the Philippines, the triumphant advance of the Japanese through the Pacific. Included also is the average American's concern over a second front. Inaction in Libya bothered Americans. Hitler's gains in the Caucasus created uneasiness in the United States.

These black moments have been interspersed with bright ones, of course. At the top of the ferris wheel is General MacArthur's escape to Australia. From this high vantage point Americans engaged in sixty days of cheering for the Russians at Stalingrad. The position was maintained when the Marines took Guadalcanal. When the Japanese showed unmistakable intentions of taking it again, Americans sank back to earth.

Occasionally the American reaction has revolved dizzily as bad news from one front followed on the heels of good news from another. But it is no exaggeration to say that at no period since Pearl Harbor has all the news from the fronts been as good as it has been in recent days. There is a second front. There is, in fact, a third front, for what the RAF is doing to the industrial regions of France, Germany and Italy cannot be overlooked.

The American expeditionary force has marched across Africa with unbelievable speed and success. Catastrophe upon catastrophe has overtaken Rommel's army. The Germans continue to be stalled on the Russian front. And from Guadalcanal comes General Holcomb's statement that the Battle of the Solomons is "shaping up rapidly in our favor."

Military and political leaders are constantly warning the American people against losing equilibrium. Bad news is given out with the reminder that American successes lie either behind or ahead. Good news is released with the admonition that bad news may be expected at any moment. The government's motives are excellent. It would prefer to keep all citizens suspended halfway between optimism and pessimism in a shock-proof composure for the duration.

Most Americans, though, gravitate toward the ferris wheel method. They reason along the lines laid down by leaders fearful of excess emotion, but their feelings will not remain static. Today it would be entirely useless to attempt to dampen the optimism of the American people. They are entitled to their moments of good spirits because they have proved that no amount of bad news will dampen their determination to win this war.

Republicans, who held only seven governorships in 1937, will fill twenty-four beginning in January. And the Gallup poll hasn't predicted the gradual disappearance of the Republican party since November 3rd.

Marie's foot seemed to slip, and she crumpled to the floor with a shrill cry of pain.

"You're taking this picture," said Marie shortly.

"But not very rapidly."

One of the cameramen interjected, "Why not have her just stepping aboard with that little week-end bag in her hand, and turning as if she were going to say goodbye to someone?"

"Now, there's an epoch-making thought, Tony. Originality's the hallmark of our shop. Hey, Marie, why not do something natural for once?"

"I'm here to pose, Mr. Farrish," said Marie. "If you'll tell me what to do I'll do it."

"You might start by picking up that week-end bag."

"I wouldn't be carrying a bag. The porter would have it."

"They tell me, neither do they spin," quoted Mr. Farrish. "Well, you're a different kind of a debutante. In fact, you're almost human. You sympathize with porters, so you carry your own little bag."

Marie sniffed, looked disdainful, and picked up the tiny case.

"Maybe it's got your jewels in it," said Farrish, "and you can't bear to have it touched by plebeian hands. Now step across the threshold, as it were, and then look back over your shoulder."

Marie stepped, tilted her chin regally, and looked back at the cameras, and then her foot seemed to slip, and she crumpled to the floor with a shrill cry of pain.

Farrish ran to her anxiously. "Now what?" he demanded without sympathy.

"I—I've sprained my ankle," she said.

He lifted her to her feet, and she moaned and sank to the floor again. "I can't stand up," she moaned. "It hurts. I can't bear it!"

"Listen, Marie: This is one time you've got to take it. You can stand long enough to get this picture. We've got twenty minutes left before this dingus pulls out of here."

"I can't," she said, "and I won't."

"Do you think if you listened closely you could get it through your head that this is necessary? We must do this job!"

"I can't stand and I won't stand."

heard herself call, "Mr. Farrish!"

He turned a blank face toward her.

"Mr. Farrish, I can do it. I'm a model. I can pose for that picture."

He narrowed his eyes and peered across at her. The men ceased dismantling the lights and waited. "Amble around here where I can get a look at you," Farrish said sharply.

She ran around the end of the slip and stood before him. He scowled down at her. She noticed his eyes; they were brown and troubled. He was a rather homely person, but there was something about his face that you would remember next day.

"What do you think, Brown?" he asked of his cameraman.

"Better than nobody, anyhow," said Brown.

This did not seem to impress Farrish. But he was the sort of person who did not show whether he was impressed or not. "Any cellar?" he said, "Waltz over there and we'll give it the old try."

Two of his men carried Marie and deposited her twenty feet away.

Farrish said to Darnley: "Grab that bag and do your stuff."

She picked up the bag and assumed a pose. Lights glared, cameras clicked. She was moved about thus and so. Her chin was tilted and depressed; the hang of her dress was altered; the set of her fingers on the handle of the bag was changed. Farrish kept correcting her expression.

"Your breakfast didn't disagree with you. It's a beautiful world. You're going to meet the boy friend! Look like you liked it! Put some 'I'll' into it!"

In twenty minutes Farrish and his helpers had done all they could do.

"That's that, boys," he said, and they commenced to pack. "Hey Sammie, run and get a wheel chair for the Duchess."

It was there that Darnley made for herself an enemy.

ON THE SCREENS

GRAND THEATRE

That invisible man is back again. This time though, he should be called the invisible Commando because he is doing the very things we would enjoy doing more than anything else; namely, invading the inner chambers of the enemy high command; learning their secrets and spreading fear and dismay where these elements do the most good.

Today's Quiet Moment

(By the Rev. James R. Galley)
Pastor, Bristol Presbyterian Church

O God, our Father, who art all things to all men, be with those who receive sudden and saddening news in these days of trial and hardship. Bear them up with the strength of thy Spirit; surround them with thine everlasting arms; enable them to see the brightness of thy love, even in the midst of darkness and pain. Grant, O God, that through the bitterness of the present day we might come to a fuller appreciation of the sweetness of thy mercy. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

But this is merely a sketch of that fabulously clever motion picture, "Invisible Agent," which opened yesterday at the Grand Theatre.

BRISTOL THEATRE

"Men of Texas," featuring Robert Stack, Jackie Cooper and Brod Crawford, is part of a double feature today at the Bristol.

They don't like to be called "hill-billies"—the Weaver Brothers and Elviry, whose specialty is small town and backwoods drama such as they enact in "The Old Homestead," coming today to the Bristol.

RITZ THEATRE

WAR BONDS

Clothing for the average enlisted man in Uncle Sam's Army when he begins duty costs $90.35. Regular issue for the soldier includes one woolen coat at a cost of $9.79. There are millions of soldiers already in uniform and more millions to come.

It will be necessary for at least 30,000,000 men and women on industrial payrolls to invest at least ten percent of wages in War Bonds in a Payroll Savings Plan to help pay for these and other war expenditures. "Top that ten percent by New Year's" is the national slogan to back up our boys in that uniform.

Frances Dee appears in "Meet the Stewarts," romantic comedy now at the Ritz Theatre.

FASHION PARADE

By Orry-Kelly
(Famous Hollywood Stylist Writing For International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD—(INS)—Beware of gadgets. It is often that extra touch, usually added at the last moment, that makes the difference between a harmonious ensemble and one that is discordant.

In Warner Bros. production of "Now, Voyager," Bette Davis wears an extremely simple black crepe dinner gown with long, tight sleeves, a deep V neckline and pencil slim skirt. The gown's smartness depends entirely on its utter simplicity and lack of trim. Any number of exquisite and dazzling jeweled clips or brilliant bracelets might have been worn with the dress—but the desired effect of plain smartness would have been lost. Bette wore only a small cluster of white camellias at that point in the neckline. No simpler touch could have been chosen.

One should be particularly sparing with trimming on an ensemble of several different colors. The colors in themselves are striking enough without additional accents. Alexis Smith, beautiful Warner Bros. star to be seen next in "The Constant Nymph," has just purchased one of the new short-jacketed velveteen suits in hunter's green. With it she combines a deep pink jersey blouse with soft bow tie at the high throat, a velveteen cushioned beret of the same hue of pink, eel-gray lizard over-the-shoulder bag and street oxfords. Here is a combination of colors in an ensemble whose effect might easily be spoiled by accenting it with a "too much" touch—a novelty pin on the suit, or a swirling veil on the chapeau.

A word about fur trims, as they will be a most important note of adornment this Fall and Winter. A much smarter effect may be realized if fur trim is treated as one note of color and

There's a Dealer in Your Neighborhood who offers this
8-Point Service Plan

Because of the scarcity of new electrical equipment, you'll want to keep your present appliances on the job for the duration. To help you do this, many approved electric repair dealers are offering a new 8-point service plan.

Call the Electrical Association of Phila., RIT. 7771, for the dealer in your locality. Here's what he'll do for a reasonable service charge:

- ◆ Inspect your major electric appliances, such as range, washer, refrigerator, cleaner, etc., giving estimates if repairs are necessary. And while at your home he will also . . .
- ◆ Inspect and clean (on outside) your small electric appliances—toasters, irons, coffeemakers, fans, etc.
- ◆ Oil your motor-driven appliances.
- ◆ Inspect your floor and table lamps.
- ◆ Repair your lamp and appliance cords (if repairable).
- ◆ Check your lamp bulbs.
- ◆ Make recommendations to improve the lighting of your home.
- ◆ Examine the fuses in your home.

SCORELESS DEADLOCK IN HOCKEY DUEL BY BRISTOL-LANGHORNE

Evenly-Matched Game Fought On The Local Field

BRISTOL SCORED GOAL

But It Was Refused Because of Detection of a Foul

A scoreless deadlock was the result of the hockey duel between the Bristol high and the Langhorne high school girls yesterday afternoon on the local field.

It was an evenly matched contest from start to finish with Bristol actually scoring a goal only to have the play refused because of a detection of a foul on a Bristol player. Long shots were attempted by both teams without success.

Sophie Bielecki, Teresa Cahall, and Gergette Biggs were outstanding in the Bristol lineup while Buckley and Pierson excelled for the Langhorne team. Buckley was injured in the second half and replaced by Swizek.

The teams will meet again later in the season on the Langhorne field.

ARCHERY LEAGUE NOW BEING FORMED

An archery league is being formed with eight teams being desired. Six aggregations have already joined and there will be opening for two more teams. The circuit is expected to begin its games on the archery range on Mill street Monday night, so if teams are interested they are requested to contact Joseph Diamanti, 134 Mill street immediately.

The teams entered in the Diamond Archery League are: Harriman, Mor-

Well-Known Bucks County Farmer Dies

Doylestown—Ralph T. Crowell, Bucks County master farmer and owner of Sunnyside Farm, Buckingham, will be buried tomorrow following private funeral services in Doylestown.

A veteran of the first World War, Crowell was president of the Bucks County Agriculture Extension Association, and was moderator of the First Baptist Church, Doylestown. He was named Bucks County master farmer for 1931.

Rumor German Generals Insist on "Reorganization"

London—A group of German generals, headed by Field Marshal Siegmund List, the Nazi commander who planned the German campaign in Yugoslavia and Greece, was reported by the Moscow radio today to be insisting on a reorganization of the German High Command.

The Moscow broadcast said the report emanated from Stockholm.

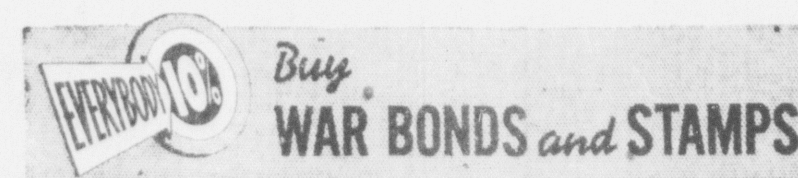

★ There's a new purpose, a new pride, in our schools these days

Our schools are at war on the home front just as our armed forces are on the battle front.

They've set their objective—and are making it!

They're buying their share of War Stamps and War Bonds and they're selling their share, too!

They're All-Out for Victory, our boys and girls, and we're proud of 'em.

His message will be colored by all these experiences, and will awaken his hearers to the vital need of the message of Jesus Christ in the world today.

raise money for a fund for the war orphans of World War No. 2.

Sponsored by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the A. R. Atkinson, Jr., Post, No. 210, American Legion, of Doylestown, the Victory Child contest is a preliminary to the "Funzappin" comedy that will be presented in the auditorium of the Presbyterian Educational Building, on Friday and Saturday nights, under the sponsorship of the Legion Auxiliary.

work at Fleetwings, which mostly consists of drilling and marking ribs.

Another Fleetwings' employee is Anne Williams, of Plant Engineering department. Her husband, Walter Williams, Bristol, is stationed "somewhere along the Virginia coast," and comes home often to see his wife. Anne keeps busy at a typewriter.

War wife Mrs. Irene Betley receives her letters from the Holy Land. Her husband, "Ted" Betley, is a member of the Army Air Force stationed there. He was a Fleetwings' employee, too, in the jig department, Plant One. "Ted" left for foreign duty in July, having joined the Army in January. His wife is one of the girls newly added to the estimating department staff.

Georgia and Georgia Tech will meet November 28th to decide which team gets an invitation to play in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena New Year's Day. Permission will be granted for that game because it was granted for the East-West contest in San Francisco on the same date for the benefit of the Shrine home for crippled children. There appears to be no fear at the moment about air raids on the Pacific Coast. Japs are too busy defending themselves in other places.

There is still some hope of racing at Santa Anita, although the transportation problem may eliminate it later. Obviously Uncle Sam means to cut down all unnecessary travel and possibly figures that travel to horse races is quite unnecessary.

Critics of Frank Leahy early in the season for changing the old shift to the "T" system of attack at Notre Dame, have now hunted cover. The "Fighting Irish" have done a great job since that Wisconsin tie and Georgia Tech defeat. If you happen to glance at the record of the Badgers you'll see that a tie with that outfit wasn't so bad and if you'll look at the Georgia Tech record you'll see that Notre Dame didn't have such an off day in losing to that crowd from down at Atlanta.

Bears Football's Best Team

There is no longer any doubt that the Chicago Bears will live up to pre-season predictions of the experts that they would retain the National football league title. They have beaten all opposition without any trouble whatever and will continue to win. It is doubtful if they will lose a game and if they do drop one they still will win the Western division championship and the play-off with the Eastern winner, which, no doubt will be Washington again. You'll see Lt. Commander George Halas sitting on the Bears' bench when that play-off game is staged because he wouldn't miss the fun of seeing George Pusyfoot Marshall in agony while his Redskins are taking it on the whiskers.

Mike Jacobs, ace of fistic promoters, says he is content to go along with ordinary shows until after the war. Nothing else he can do. All the best boxers, except Ray Robinson, are in the service and Robinson will be shortly. There are more important things to do now than entertain the popeyed fanatics with punches. The job ahead is to knock out Hitler and the Japs.

Dempsey Shows 'Em How

One of the best pieces of literature to teach men to handle enemies in hand to hand fighting is a book entitled "How to Fight Tough," which Frank Menke ghosted for Lt. Jack Dempsey of the Coast Guard. Dempsey knows all the tricks of dirty fighting and he is teaching the boys in the guard how to break arms and legs, choke opponents and do all the things that will come in handy any time they get into a battle with a foe. It is a swell book for everyone to read so he will know how to act when in trouble.

Fred Apostoli, former middle-weight champion boxer, asked to be relieved of his soft job as boxing instructor at Norfolk station and sent into combat. He is on his way overseas. Freddy Steele, former champion, has gone into service. There are now about 3,000 boxers in the armed forces.

Waiting Orders From U. S.

Major league magnates are waiting word from Washington as to just what is wanted of them before their meeting in Chicago December 1st. With more restrictions on travel it may be that they will adopt that proposed plan of Eastern and Western leagues, taking four from each and making new circuits until after the war. This would avoid travel from the Eastern to the Western end of the present loops.

There is also likelihood of shortening the schedules, in spite of rigid demands from the presidents that this will take place. If schedules are shortened training trips will not be necessary and that alone will help Uncle Sam's transportation problem. They'll do what they are told to do and like it.

If you are thinking about all-American material this early you might name Dove, Notre Dame end; Stiff, Penn fullback; Ziemba, Notre Dame center; Shkwich, Georgia halfback; and Nazur, Army halfback, as almost sure to make it. There will also be one or two from Georgia, Alabama, Texas, Tulsa and Noton College in the group.

Mazur, Army halfback, as almost sure making All-American when he played against the "Fighting Irish" but he was not fully recovered from a leg injury.
